

SAREFIRE SINKS

With a gently curved body and flowing foot transition, Sarefire sinks have an earthy quality that reflects their stoneware roots. The simple beauty of Sarefire sinks is sure to make an artistic impression in your home, looking beautiful in a variety of settings.

Like all Ed Racicot's Art Sinks, Sarefire sinks are made of high fire stoneware; a very dense and strong clay. Using a high fire clay means these sinks are easy to live with. They are very easy to clean and care for. Just treat the sink like any sink you may have had in the past. They are very durable and made to last more than a lifetime.

DELTA SINKS

With a deeply curved body and a bold foot transition, our Delta sink is the perfect choice for those who will not sacrifice function for style.

Like many of our sink styles, Delta sinks can be made in a variety of sizes: anywhere from 8 to 17 inches in diameter to 4 to 8 inches in height. Visit our website to see exact dimensions available for each sink style and how to create your own custom sink.

SCHEFFLEY SINKS

The Scheffley series features a curvaceous body and a distinctly, flared foot transition. Transitional in style, the Scheffley styled sinks fits very well in a variety of settings. Made in a multitude of sizes, from tall and narrow to short and wide.

UNDERHILL BASINS

Old World Craftsman Style is the best way to describe the character of these handsome sinks. Underhill sinks feature fairly upright walls and a prominent foot.

Made with or without a formal mounting rim, Underhill sinks can be made to be drop-in (self-rimming sinks). In addition, these basins can be vessel mounted or partially countersunk. When ordered accordingly, Underhill sinks can be made to be an under-mount sink as well (like the photo on the right).

With its many mounting possibilities, Underhill sinks are the perfect choice for wet bars as well as in many corner applications.

With more than 40 colors to choose from, we have glazes that will fit most any décor.
